TO BE COMMENDED

Sheriff John A. Miller is to be commended for his suggestion to the Board of Supervisors that county jail prisoners be used in fixing up the potter's field at Martinez.

This burial place of the indigent dead has long been not only an eyesore and disgrace. The pathetic thing is that there is no provision in law for caring for the plot where the unfortunates are given a final home. It has stood alone and neglected for many years, forgotten like the men and women who are buried there. The idea of the sheriff, motivated by a humanitarian impulse and civic pride, was properly sanctioned by the supervisors. If more work of this character is devised by our high peace officer it will be a good thing for the physical wellbeing of the prisoners and will result in needed improvements in various lines being made.

THEY CROSS SWORDS

We have long entertained a high admiration for Mayor Hugh Donovan of Pittsburg, who amid all the strife and turmoil in which that city is constantly embroiled has always maintained a cool head and had his feet on the ground. It therefore is with unconcealed surprise that we find the executive head crossing swords with the Post-Dispatch of that municipality.

It seems that the newspaper had the temerity to publish the proceeding of a secret meeting of the council, or was on the edge of doing so, when the mayor declared that the penalty would be the taking away of the privilege of using the city auditorium for the holding of a cooking school.

No good newspaper is ever deterred in serving the public by any threat of being penalized. This paper has had varied experience in that direction and it is seldom a week passed but we are threatened with condign punishment if certain news items are published. We do not know where the ancient belief originated that a threat will result in the suppression of news. We know

LAMSON IS HELPED BY TESTIMONY

SAN JOSE, March 7—UP—Defense forces clinched two important points today in their battle to save David Lamson from a second conviction on charges of murdering his wife, Aileen.

Cross-examining prosecution witnesses, Defense Attorney Edwin V. McKenzie bought out that:

1—Lamson, while manifesting no emotional strain when seen shortly before discovery of his wife's body, was overcome after the discovery.

SCORES POINT

2—He was in the habit of burning trash in the back yard of his home when ever he cleaned the yard as he was doing when two women called at the house immediately before discovery of Mrs. Lamson's body.

The second point, substantiated by Helen Vincent, a neighbor of the Lamson's struck at prosecution claims in Lamson's first trial that he had built a fire with intentions of destroying blood stains on an iron pipe found in ashes of the fire. The state maintains he used this pipe to beat Mrs. Lamson to death. Miss Vincent also testified that she talked with Lamson twice the morning his wife's body was found draped over a bathtub. There was nothing unusual about his manner then, she said.

WOMEN TESTIFY

Mrs. Julia C. Place and Mrs. Alfred Raas testified similarly.

Mrs. Place, a real estate operator, said she had taken Mrs. Raas and her husband to the Lamson home to investigate sub-letting the residence. She said that after ringing the doorbell to his house and receiving no answer, she went to the rear of the house and saw Lamson

MRS. M'CORD IS FUGITIVE

WAR IS THREATENED IN BALKANS

FLOODS IN VALLEY AREA ARE FEARED

More rain is in prospect for Richmond and the bay region, the weather bureau announced last night after the city has enjoyed a brief respite from rain, hail and sleet.

A new storm is forming off the coast and is due to reach here some time today, bringing showers.

Hail and sleet fell here yesterday afternoon, coupled with an icy blast that resulted in reports of new damage done by the wind. At the William Brown residence at 33 Water street, at the West Side, a window was blown in; at Keller's wharf, several pleasure boats moored there were torn from their mooring lines and tossed upon the beach, a strip of roofing six feet square was torn from the George Ellis residence at 417 Golden Gate avenue while a huge, plate-glass window at Albert's store at Ninth and Macdonald was broken by the gale.

Two hail and sleet storms were experienced yesterday afternoon; one at about two o'clock in the afternoon and the second shortly after four o'clock. At five o'clock a shower started, ending shortly after eight o'clock. Later in the evening the skies cleared and a cold wintry wind swept the city. At midnight, however, the skies were overcast and a hint of rain was in the air.

With yesterday's storms, Richmond's rainfall figures are an inch above normal. On Wednesday between four and six o'clock, .52 of

Fingerprinted

THE ENTIRE personnel of the M. G. M. film studios responded to U. S. Atty. Hugh Cummings' invitation to be fingerprinted. One of the first to submit her fingerprints to the National Bureau of Identification was Mary Carlisle, film star. Dep. U. S. Marshal Dwight Snyder does the fingerprinting.

REBELS WIN BATTLE IN BIG REVOLT

(By UNITED PRESS)

Europe, rearming and made nervous by the threat of a future war, was gravely concerned Thursday night over the Greek revolution and threat of a possible war in the Balkans.

Principal developments of the day follow:

Bulgaria protested to the League of Nations that Turkey is mobilizing heavily in Eastern Thrace, on the Bulgarian border. Turkey retorted by charging Bulgaria with military movements on the Greek frontier.

SHIPS ARE SENT

Great Britain and France stationed warships off Piraeus, Port of Athens, to guard the interests of their nationals. Italy considered similar measures.

The Greek government ordered all coastal navigation lights out at night, virtually closing all Greek ports after sundown. Foreign ships were fully warned of the measure by radio.

REBELS ATTACK

The rebels were attacked by the Greek Government on land and sea. The loyal army in Macedonia and Western Thrace attacked the rebels with airplanes, artillery and infantry.

The rebel fleet steamed north from the Island of Crete, threatening to attack the mainland ports. The Government fleet, reinforced by hastily repaired warships, steamed out to the attack but apparently the two fleets passed each other in the Aegean.

DESTROYERS SENT

Three destroyers of the Government fleet bombarded Canea, Crete, headquarters of former Premier Eleuthegios Venizelos and claimed

FLEEING WOMAN TRACED TO RENO BY AUTHORITIES

Ruth W. McCord is a fugitive from justice with the shadows of indictments dogging at her heels.

TRACED TO RENO

Missing since she was indicted early yesterday morning by the county grand jury on embezzlement charges, the former head of the county social service bureau was traced to Reno, Nevada, last night by Sheriff John A. Miller.

Sheriff Miller immediately telegraphed and telephoned to Reno authorities, asking that Mrs. McCord be arrested at once if she is found in that city.

OFFICERS DUBIOUS

However, authorities were extremely dubious that Mrs. McCord is in Reno. They believe she may have fled to another section of the country after reaching the "divorce city" shortly after seven o'clock yesterday morning.

An investigation by Sheriff Miller revealed the astounding fact that just a few minutes after she had been summoned to appear before the grand jury and to testify—which she refused to do—Mrs. McCord went to the Southern Pacific station at Martinez and purchased a ticket to Sacramento. She carried an overnight and suitcase and was attired in a black suit and black hat. She boarded the 10:44 train for the State Capital.

AGENT IDENTIFIES HER

The Martinez station agent told Sheriff Miller that he had sold Mrs. McCord the ticket, which she paid for with three fifty cent pieces. A second man, who works at Suisun but lives in Martinez, was on the train and saw Mrs. McCord sitting in front of him.

Last night when Train No. 10 pulled into the station at Martinez, Sheriff Miller boarded it and questioned the conductor, and the brakeman. George Musser, of Oakland. The conductor, told the sheriff that he remembered seeing Mrs. McCord board the train. His description of her tallied with Sheriff Miller's description.

BUYS RENO TICKET

When the train pulled into Sacramento, Musser told Miller, Mrs. McCord questioned the conductor about buying a ticket to Reno. She then purchased the ticket, got sleeper accommodations, and got on the train. Musser and the brakeman quit the train at Sacramento, the end of their line, and so were unable to say whether or not Mrs. McCord got off at Reno when the train reached there at 7:15 yesterday morning.

Belief was expressed that perhaps she had purchased another ticket at Reno and had taken another train to some other city.

WAS MISSING

When Sheriff John A. Miller undertook to serve the warrant for her arrest, that had been placed in his hands at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, she was nowhere to be found. An intensive search was at once instituted which lasted during the entire day and until late in the evening when first clues to her whereabouts were discovered.

Hotels and rooming houses were visited in the search, but there was no record of her registration at any of those places, nor had she been seen by any person. Thither to the ranch she once owned, hastened a deputy sheriff, but the object of his quest could not be found.

BROKE ENGAGEMENT

Even her attorneys, Ralph Wight and former District Attorney James F. Hoey, with whom she had an appointment yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and did not keep, were at a loss to account for her non-appearance. It was the first time during an extended relationship of attorney and client that Mrs. McCord had failed in an appointment with Attorney Wight. On Wednesday, when she arrived in Martinez, from Los Angeles, she had gone

Richmond, Vallejo Rotarians Enjoy Smoker At Club

Rotarians of Richmond and Vallejo gathered last evening at the Berkeley country club at a stag smoker arranged by George Thornton of the local club.

More than 120 members of the two service clubs attended the meeting, which was featured by a dinner and program. The latter was provided by the members of the Vallejo club, who brought with them their orchestra and several acts of vaudeville.

No meeting will be held by the local Rotary club today.

Musicians Union To Have Banquet

Members of the Richmond Musicians union will enjoy a banquet and social get-together this evening at 8 o'clock at their regular meeting place.

Howard Rowe and H. E. Russell are in charge of the affair and are arranging a first class menu for the evening.

No business meeting will be held by the union at that time as the entire evening will be devoted to the banquet and social.

SCRIBES DINNER GUESTS

Newspapermen of the bay region were guests last night of the El Cerrito Post of the American Legion at a dinner served at an El Cerrito cafe. The affair was a token of the appreciation of the veterans for the publicity given them by the scribes for the coming Days of '49 celebration in El Cerrito. Louis E. Davis, commander of the post, was the host.

INJURED IN CRASH

Thomas Hess, 432 Washington avenue, suffered a slight cut on the forehead when he struck a parked car on Standard avenue early this morning. He was treated at a local hospital and was then returned home. Both cars were slightly damaged.

THE WEATHER

SAN FRANCISCO BAY REGION—Cloudy and cool today and tomorrow; at times unsettled; fresh west wind.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA—Cloudy and cool today and tomorrow; local showers.

Red Literature Read At Trial Of 17 Communists

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—UP—Defense Attorney Leo Gallagher droned through another day of Communist literature reading today while everyone in the court, including the 15 defendants being tried on criminal syndicalism charges, listened apathetically.

Gallagher said the reading would continue till depositions arrived from New York national Communist leaders telling of party tenets and from Wisconsin. He said the latter would contradict testimony of William Hanks, 70-year old investigator who claimed he was forced from the State at gun-point by Communist partisans.

Strike Menace Threatens Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba, March 7.—UP—With the strike menace spreading throughout the government organization despite stern, emergency measures, President Mendieta called his cabinet into extraordinary session late tonight as troops assumed control of the government radio, telegraph and postal services.

The navy took charge of radio and telegraph and soldiers were installed in the postal department after communication workers walked out to join in the strike of treasury, labor, education, justice and agriculture department employees.

McKinley Lodge Hears Officer

McKinley Lodge of Masons held its business meeting last night in Masonic hall with L. C. Keading the master, presiding.

Jacob E. Hughes, district inspector, was present and gave an interesting talk. Light refreshments were served.

MR. AND MRS. JEREMIAH LYNCH are the parents of a 9½ pound baby boy born yesterday at an Albany hospital.

Industries Form Association To Promote Peace

MARTINEZ, March 7.—Designed to assist in arbitrating labor disputes and promoting industrial peace and harmony, the Industrial Association of Contra Costa county today filed articles of incorporation in the office of County Clerk S. C. Wells here, through Attorney Thomas M. Carlson of Richmond.

Directors of the association consist of heads of most of the principal companies in the county, including Carl W. Schedler, of Pittsburg, E. B. Bull, Richmond; William P. Hugo, Avon; Charles B. Weeks, Brentwood; J. D. Keith, Crockett; J. L. Hanna, San Francisco; W. E. Zander, Richmond; C. L. Bates, Pittsburg; William Cohn, Pittsburg; W. H. George, San Francisco; Fitch Robertson, Selby; George W. Harter, Antioch; A. Roy Heise, Oleum, and D. M. Day, Martinez.

E. B. Bull of Richmond is president of the association and Leo Marcollo, secretary.

According to the articles the purposes of the association are to cultivate a friendly and co-operative feeling among the industries of Contra Costa county to better understand and deal with industrial problems and disputes; to promote and advocate industrial peace and harmony between employers and employes in the industries of Contra Costa county so as to insure the happiness and prosperity of Contra Costa county; to arbitrate, counsel and advise with employes or their representatives, in the interests of the avoiding or settling of labor disputes; and to encourage the location of industry in Contra Costa county by aiding those engaged in constructive enterprises and by making Contra Costa county attractive to investors of capital.

Troubles Are Many, Joys Are But Few

The unique case of a husband 81 suing for divorce, from a wife, 83, and asking alimony of $65 a month from her, promises to be one of the most hotly contested suits ever heard in the Superior court of Contra Costa county.

The action, in legal parlance is termed Francis Roberts, sometimes known as Frank Roberts, plaintiff, vs. Julia H. C. Roberts, defendant. But the mere title in itself does not even give an inkling of the charges and counter-charges that are legally flying back and forth or the sensational nature of them.

The tale of woe of the husband plaintiff, as set forth in his complaint intimates that friend wife is of that close Scotch ancestry that loves a dollar no better than it does its right eye or left leg.

Richmond 20-30 Club Plans For Program Meeting

The Richmond 20-30 Club last night convened at the Hotel Carquinez at a business meeting presided over by Dr. H. F. Mortenson. Reports were heard on the recent visit paid to the Berkeley chapter.

William Estamint gave a report on Sea Scouting. The service club sponsors a Sea Scout troop.

Next Thursday night a program meeting in honor of prospective members will be enjoyed. There will be a speaker.

March 30 is the date set for the annual ladies' night ceremonies to be held at the Berkeley Country Club.

Charles Hamley was speaker of the evening last night. His subject was "Memory."

Style Show Is Now Being Held By Local Stores

Richmond merchants today are holding open house to give residents of the city an opportunity to view the latest spring fashions, which were placed on display last evening.

Despite the storm, and the cold weather, many residents "window shopped" last evening, inspecting the many displays of spring styles for men, women and children. Due to the storm, the annual spring automobile show was not held on Macdonald avenue.

Local merchants are anticipating a record season of spring buying.

Mysterious Paper Dolls Arouse Quiz

SALINAS, March 7.—UP—Several Salinas citizens were wondering today why somebody should mail them mysterious paper doll cut-outs, equipped with holying halos.

All the envelopes were postmarked San Francisco. They were received by the Index-Journal, Police Chief George Griffin, County Clerk Carol Joy and employes of the Del Monte Hotel, although none of the recipients could explain the allegory behind the paper dolls. The cut-outs apparently were similar to those received by the Phoenix, Ariz., U. S. attorney's staff.

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD FOR MRS. BERGER

Funeral services were held yesterday from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel for the late Mrs. Ida Berger of Lagunitas, Marin county, who died Wednesday while visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. W. Johnson, 5204 Macdonald avenue.

Rites were conducted by Rev. A. J. Case and burial followed in Sunset View cemetery.

Judson Doke Pleads Guilty To Theft Count

OAKLAND, March 7—UP—Judson Doke, whom a jury refused to send to jail for killing his wife's paramour, must serve time for stealing $16.95 from the city of San Leandro.

Doke abruptly pleaded guilty to one count of embezzlement today after it was agreed four other counts and two outstanding indictments involved in alleged misappropriation of $1,800 of the city's funds while he was a municipal milk inspector would be dropped.

The prosecution agreed because the conviction on one count carries a one-to-10 year term.

Judge Frank M. Ogden emphasized Doke would not be granted probation and never again could hold public office. He will be sentenced Thursday.

Doke was acquitted by a Woodland, Cal., jury on an "unwritten law" verdict after he was charged with shooting Lamar Hollingshead, his wife's young poet lover.

LAST RITES ARE HELD FOR LATE A. C. CURTIS

With McKinley Lodge of Masons officiating, funeral services were held yesterday from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel for the late A. C. Curtis, well known local man. Rev. A. At Prat officiated at the rites and interment was in Sunset Mausoleum.

Pallbearers were Rolla Eubanks, Edward Kelley, Fred MacWilliams, E. M. Milner, W. P. Cooper and Alex McTaggart.

OREGON CAGE TEAMS READY FOR TROJANS

CORVALLIS, Ore., March 7—UP—University of Southern California's highly polished offensive basketball team arrived today for the Pacific Coast intercollegiate championship series with Oregon State, Friday and Saturday nights, and if necessary, Monday.

A large crowd greeted the impressive looking Trojan squad. The team held a short workout in the Oregon State gym and removed the stiffness received in their long train and bus trip.

Spectators eyes centered on Lee Guttero, conference high-scorer and center for the Trojans whom many acclaim as the best player ever developed in the West and probably leading center in the United States this season.

BEAVERS PLAN DEFENSE

The Beavers will use a man to man defense. The Orangemen initiated the season with this style but changed to the zone defense for the two games with Washington, after the Huskies won two previous games. They then returned to the man to man plan.

Cliff Folen, Earl Conkling and Wilbur Ridder drilled today on the formidable assignment of guarding Guttero. He specializes in close-in shots, although he is an accurate shooter outside the foul line.

TALLEST PLAYER

Fred Hill and Bob Berkstrom, guards, prepared to check Jack Hupp, forward and second to Guttero in scoring. Hupp is the tallest man on the U. S. C. squad at six feet four inches. He concentrates on angle and hook shots and has no mean ability at caging rebound shots.

Moss Lyman, Beaver star who produced a stimulating effect on the squad throughout the season, was assigned to guard Ernie Holbrook, the other U. S. C. forward, who specializes in push shots that seldom touch the rim.

FIVE STARS

Wally Palmberg and Captain George Hibbard, forwards, will adhere, respectively, to Lawrence Findlay and Eddie Oram, Trojan guards. Findlay has an enviable reputation for rapidity in passing the ball, while Oram is reputedly an extremely clever dribbler.

Five all-stars will be in the lineups tomorrow night. Northern division coaches named Hibbard and Palmberg on an all-star aggregation and Guttero, Holbrook and Hupp were picked in the southern selections.

KING WALTER RETURNS

Speaking Of Sports

LONDON, March 7—UP—Golden Miller, the greatest steeplechaser in the world, is owned by the Hon. Dorothy Paget, reputedly the wealthiest unmarried woman in Britain.

Miss Paget is the 30-year-old grand-daughter of the late William C. Whitney, United States Secretary of the Navy. She inherited from her American mother a fortune reported about $750,000 a year.

High Horse Cost

She must have spent nearly $500,000 on horses, since she took up the sport about five years ago. She has paid out record amounts at the thoroughbred auctions, yet only Golden Miller really has been worth the money.

Golden Miller won the world's toughest cross-country race in record time last year, and although carrying top weight, he is a firm favorite to win it again.

If he does Miss Paget will collect about $40,000 in stake money, and the reputation of being the only woman to have won the race twice.

Miss Paget is something of an enigma. She is extremely shy and retiring. Little is known about her early life, and she is only in social records as the daughter of Baron Queenborough by his first wife, Pauline Whitney, of New York.

When Lady Queenborough died in 1916, the Baron married Edith, daughter of William Starr Miller, of New York.

Welfare Worker

Ten years ago Miss Paget was spending most of her time and money on welfare work. She used to take concert parties to the prisons.

Then she took up automobile racing. She spent $100,000 on a fleet of racing Bentleys, and put Sir Henry Birkin in charge. Sometimes she drove the car herself.

Eventually this, too, bored her, and about 1930, she turned to horse racing for a new thrill. She took to the turf like a duck to water, and today, apart from bridge, at which she is an expert, it occupies all her time.

Miss Paget soon became a big name in the racing world, not for her success (her name has seldom appeared in the list of winning owners) but for the way she took the roof off the limit when bidding at the sales.

In 1932 she had a sensational bidding duel with Aga Khan, fabulously wealthy Indian price. Every time the Aga Khan bid for a certain yearling, Miss Paget went at least $500 better. The Aga Khan hauled down his flag at $23,100.

Again Outbids

A few days later she outbid Lord Glanely, another turf millionaire, paying $26,250 for a likely colt. The most she has ever paid for one horse is $34,650 to obtain the half-brother of St. Leger winner.

It is not known how much Golden Miller cost her, but he has undoubtedly won his price several times over. Miss Paget bought him in Ireland when the black gelding was a five-year-old. His dam could not even win a $500 race, and his sire never ran at all. He is, however, a thoroughbred, which jumpers usually are not.

Golden Miller has been Miss Paget's practically only successful gamble in youngsters. Seldom have her colors—blue, yellow hoop, and yellow cap—flashed first under the wire at "flat" meetings.

Polo Handicaps Will Be Set At Del Monte Meet

DEL MONTE, March 7—UP—Polo rankings in the West will be fought out here beginning Sunday when the Pacific Coast high goal handicap championship gets underway.

Several of the best polofists of the nation will take part, including Elmer Boeseke, Allen Roark, Laddie Sanford, Earl Hopping, Eric Pedley, Howland Paddock and Eric Tyrrell-Martin.

The schedule calls for three or four games a week until finals are reached toward the end of March. In the signup to date are:

Hal Roach, C. H. Jackson, Jr., Gerald Balding, Harry East, Alex Bullock, Darryl Zanuck, Gwin Williams, George Pope, Jr., Charles Howard, Jr., Frank Fuller, Lindsay Howard, Capt. Selby McCreery, Arthur Perkins, Reginald Sinclaire and Converse M. Converse.

BAY MEADOWS OPENS MEET ON TUESDAY

SAN MATEO, March 7—With Starter Harry Morrissey on hand, schooling of horses from the Puett starting gate will begin at Bay Meadows Friday morning in preparation for the spring meeting which opens next Tuesday. Morrissey has been sending them away at Agua Caliente each Sunday and has turned that job over to his son.

With the opening day less than a week off, stalls are rapidly being filled and the first of the big shipment from Los Angeles was unloaded at the local track Wednesday. It included the 10 horses belonging to the Lundy-Ryan stable and four two-year-olds owned by A. Gibo'ey. Daily News, All Star, Wild Waves, Ziff and Crystal Lake were among those unloaded.

Another shipment is expected Thursday and others will be arriving daily until Monday, when most of the horses at Los Angeles will be unloaded. Most of the leading stables now at the southern track are not expected until after the close of Santa Anita Saturday.

General Manager William P. Kyne has received word that Jockey Sonny Workman will come to Bay Meadows if he can make satisfactory arrangements with his contract owner, C. V. Whitney. Workman is one of the outstanding riders of America and would be a valuable addition to the already imposing list of jockeys coming here.

Final details and policies will be ironed out at a board of directors meeting at the Hotel Whitcomb in San Francisco Friday night.

CAMPBELL SETS NEW RECORD IN FLORIDA RACE

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 7—UP—A monster in blue, carrying a man in white, blazed down the silver strand that is Daytona Beach today, to lift the world's land speed record to a breathtaking 276.816 miles an hour.

Bluebird, the 2500-horsepower motor under her shark nosed bonnet thundering a challenge to time, twice carried her master, Sir Malcolm Campbell, through the measured mile and to a near-fulfillment of his dreams.

NEW RECORD

Going south, with a stiff southeast wind biting into her face, Bluebird needed but 13.20 seconds to open and shut the timing traps of the bullseye mile.

Coming back with the wind lashing her giant stabilizer fin, she rocketed even faster, whipping through the traps in 12.81 seconds.

Bluebird's speed going south was 272.727, coming back it was 281.030, for an average of 276.816 M. P. H., comfortably bettering the mark of 272.108 he established on the same course in 1933.

NEAR DEATH

The little Briton, who will turn 50 on Monday, was cold as ice when he stepped from the cockpit at the finish of the run north, but leaning against the side of his car, puffing a cigarette, he told of a moment when he thought his lust for speed was riding him to his doom.

"You didn't see it, you folks in the timing tower, but half a mile past the measured mile on the north run, I thought the old gal and I were headed for a blackout. We were doing about 280, and I was riding low and snug when it happened. Out of nowhere came a bump in the sand, and when Bluebird hit it she shook her head sort of like a fish after a strike—and headed for the soft sand.

"In my heart I felt I was done for. As her back wheels skidded just to the edge of the dunes, I yanked her over. Then the wrestling match began. We were all over the beach for a moment—and it seemed a year. But she's a stout old girl—a very stout old girl, and so, after zig-zagging back and forth she suddenly bit her tires into the sand, quavered for a moment, and levelled off.

"It was damned unpleasant for a moment there."

LOUIS TO BE SIGNED FOR TITLE BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7—UP—If Joe Louis scores a decisive victory over Donald (Red) Barry here Friday night, he will be signed to meet one of America's leading heavyweights in a 15-round fight in New York, John Roxborough, manager of the Detroit negro, said today.

Roxborough revealed that he had received four offers from Madison Square Garden in the last few months, but had deferred signing any contract until the conclusion of Louis' western tour.

Rumors have circulated here that Louis would meet the winner of the Ray Impellittiere-Prima Carnera fight in San Francisco. Roxborough, however, said today that if Louis is going to meet the winner of that fight, it would be in New York.

"I believe that Louis would knock out either of these fellows in five rounds," Roxborough declared.

Both fighters rested today following conclusion of training for Friday's fight.

Preliminary bouts follow:

Frankie Connolly vs. Jack Petrie, heavyweights; Eddie Houghton vs. Bob Fraser, heavyweights; Cliff Dalen vs. Al Rovay, heavyweights, and Al Marino vs. Nash Lara, light heavyweights.

Pirates Start Training

U. C. Track Men To Meet U. S. F. In Dual Meet

BERKELEY, March 7—UP—Ready for their first dual meet of the 1935 season, University of California track and field stars wound up training today for their clash with the University of San Francisco squad here Saturday.

Although the California squad is heavily favored to swamp the Dons in total points, the San Francisco team is counting on first places in several events, especially the mile, quarter mile and high hurdles.

Johnny Wall, rated among the best milers on the coast, will represent the San Franciscans in the four lap event, running against Bob Heavey and Clark Hickerson of California.

In the quarter Les Wisler of San Francisco, who has covered the distance in :48.2, is favored to defeat Everett Leek and Gregory Stout of California.

Percy Dornfeld, star San Francisco high hurdler, is expected to break up the fast California combination of Captain Dick Coe, Tom Moore and John Wood. Dornfeld has run the highs in :14.7, while all three Californians have cracked 15 flat.

HI-Y CAGERS WIN TITLE IN RICHMOND LOOP

In one of the most exciting games ever played at the high school gymnasium, the Boy's Hi-Y team defeated the McRacken Clothiers by a score of 35 to 32 for the championship of the City Basketball League.

Both teams exhibited championship brand of basketball throughout the contest, which was witnessed by a record crowd.

The lead see-sawed from start to finish, with the outcome in doubt until the final whistle blew.

Smersfelt was high point man for the winners, scoring 17 points while Gordon got ten for the losers.

As a result of their victory, the Hi-Y boys will receive a cup and each player on the team will be presented with a gold basketball.

MANY OFFENDERS FACE POLICE JUDGE

The docket of the police court was somewhat crowded Wednesday night when Judge Thompson listened to a long list of cases mostly having to do with infringments of the Vehicle Act.

Kenneth Bennett, 16th and Florida streets, Richmond was sentenced to $50.00 fine or 25 days in jail for being drunk in an auto. He was sent to the county jail at Martinez.

Louis A. Bianchini, 215 South 13th street, Richmond, arrested some time ago on a reckless driving charge and fined $50, was sent to the Martinez jail in lieu of the balance of $35.00 remaining unpaid on his fine.

The case of Donald A. Mart who broke off a telephone pole, tore down a sign and ran into the front of the Nissen building at San Pablo and Orchard street recently, was continued until next week. The charge against him was reckless edriving.

The assault case in which Carl Males of El Cerrito was defendant and O. W. Thibolaux, also of El Cerrito, was complaining witness, came up for hearing before Judge Thompson on Thursday morning, but owing to the absence of the district attorney and some of the important witnesses it was continued for one week. Males was arrested on a battery charge here on February 21. The men were both owners of racing dogs and got into some sort of disagreement which precipitated a fight, ending with the arrest of Males and the assault and battery charge.

SALVATION AID ENJOYS MEETING

A business meeting of the Oakland Salvation Army Aid Society was held in El Cerrito Wednesday afternoon at the home of Andrew Baxter, 706 Richmond street. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Envoy Olson, Norman Olson, Mrs. Cary Anderson, Mrs. O. Anderson, Mrs. P. Nelson, Mrs. Erickson, Mrs. C. Tobiason, Evelyn Tobiason, Mrs. C. Engberg, Ramond Engberg, Mrs. C. Hessler, Mrs. K. Doklin, Miss L. Johnson, Mrs. C. Helge, Mrs. E. Baxter and Mr. Andrew Baxter.

A social hour following the business meeting was much enjoyed by those present.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES BY LOKOYA COUNCIL

Wednesday night was social night for the Ladies of the Lokoya Council, Degree of Pocahontas. A spaghetti supper was served by Mrs. Carrie Bottini assisted by Anna Bossi, Louise Likeshire and Edna Lax. An evening of cards followed. A short business meeting preceded the supper. The members voted to sponsor a benefit dance to be given for a needy family of El Cerrito. Fern and Carlo Fera are in charge of arrangements for this affair.

The Council will put on a pillow-case whist for the evening of May 1. The affair will be given at Memorial hall, playing will begin at eight o'clock. There will be a door prize in addition to the prizes for high score holders, and the games will be managed by Edna Lax. A large crowd is anticipated.

DEATH OF WILLIAM SONKE IS MOURNED

Word was received in El Cerrito Wednesday of the death of William Sonke at Modesto on Tuesday.

Sonke was well known in El Cerrito and popular among the young people here. He once was a member of the El Cerrito football team. He had been ailing for many months before his passing. Funeral services were conducted for him at Modesto yesterday. Many El Cerrito young people attended.

Among those making the trip yesterday were Wyvonia Burnett, Escal Burnett, Bill Frank, Della Ekenberg, John Ekenberg, Andy Wilson and his mother, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. Roof and her sons, Berle, Owen and Herbert, and Helen and Dorothy Scott. Deceased was a brother of Helena Sonke and Mrs. Christine Robinson of El Cerrito.

HARDING WHIST ENJOYED BY MANY

A fair-sized crowd enjoyed the Harding P. T. A. whist March 6th in the school auditorium. Prizes were awarded to the winners as follows: Anna M. Prior, Adah Hofer, Mrs. G. E. Graham, Hazel Allinio, Mrs. R. Molzan, Mrs. A. A. Charlson, Mrs. A. Devincenzi.

Union Oil Co. Plant Is Hit By Small Fire

Fire of unknown origin damaged the de-waxing plant at the Union Oil company refinery plant at Oleum early last evening.

Although plant officials refused flatly to make any statement about the matter, it is understood that damage was very small. The plant fire department quickly extinguished the blaze.

One employee, a man named Thompson, was reported to have suifered superficial burns about the hands and face while fighting the blaze. He was treated at the company hospital.

Wife Of Missionary Killed By Bandits

SHANGHAI, Friday, March 8—UP—Mrs. S. C. Frenchman, wife of an Australian missionary, and her husband have been killed by bandits who captured the town of Ning Kiang, China inland missionary officials believed today.

Unconfirmed reports from the war-torn province said that Mrs. Frenchman, a nurse, was killed while she endeavored to help the injured wife of a Chinese official.

Nick The Greek Is Bound For Prison

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Nick "the Greek" Constantine, San Francisco "public enemy," left for Leavenworth prison today in company with deputy marshals to begin a term of five years on a narcotic charge. Constantine was recently freed of conspiracy charges in connection with a San Quentin gun-running plot. Joseph Galli, alleged accomplice, also acquitted, is serving six months in the county jail on a vagrancy charge.

Aviation Leader Called By Death

NEW YORK, March 7—Richard F. Hoyt, 46, chairman of the Board of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and a leading financier in the aviation industry, died here today.

He had been ill for two weeks.

With the formation of the Aviation Corporation of North America, Hoyt became chairman of the board. He was also a director of numerous other corporations and was on the executive committee of Pan-American Airways.

PEANUT IN LUNG

CHARDON, O.—UP—A peanut was removed from the lung of 21-months-old Sidney Calvin after it had been lodged in the baby's windpipe for several days.

MRS. HENRY GREEGER of Mira Vista is recuperating at her home from the effects of an operation performed at a local hospital recently.

LONG ATTACKS JOHNSON, F.D.R. IN RADIO TALK

WASHINGTON, March 7.—UP—Senator Huey P. Long, Democrat, Louisiana, flung back at General Hugh S. Johnson tonight the charge that the New Deal is "more like St. Vitus dance" than a government.

The Louisiana Kingfish, in a prepared 45-minute radio reply to the scathing attack of Johnson last Monday night, conceded that he could not match his critics "in billingsgate or profanity" and still leave time for presenting his side of the argument.

SCORES ROOSEVELT

Charging that President Roosevelt had taken many of his policies from unsuccessful ones of former President Hoover, Long continued:

"While millions have starved and gone naked, so it has been that while babies have cried and died for milk; while people have begged for meat and bread, Mr. Roosevelt's administration has sailed merrily along, plowing under and destroying the things to eat and to wear, with tear-dimmed eyes and hungry souls made to chant for this New Deal so that even their starvation dole is not taken away, and meanwhile the food and clothes craved by their bodies and souls go for destruction and ruin.

BITTER ATTACK

"What is it? Is it government? Maybe so. It looks more like St. Vitus dance."

Long was bitter as he attacked the National Recovery Administration which Johnson was instrumental in building as a New Deal agency.

He said that when the NRA started the Administration had "parades and Fascist signs just like Hitler and Mussolini."

LIKE ITALY

"They started the dictatorship here to regiment business and labor much more than anyone did in Germany or Italy," Long shouted.

"The only difference was in the sign. Italy's sign of the Fascist was a black shirt. Germany's sign of the Fascist was a swastika. So in America they sidetracked the Stars and Stripes, and the sign of the Blue Eagle was used instead."

The Louisiana Senator said that codes had been written for "everything from a peanut stand to a power house" and each had "a separate book of rules and laws."

"It would take 40 lawyers to tell a shoe shiner how to operate and be certain he didn't go to jail," Long said.

The Kingfish said he had studied some codes at the request of persons who couldn't understand them, and he couldn't understand them himself.

Damage Claim Is Compromised

MARTINEZ, March 7.—Permission to compromise an injury claim of Anne Rubick, his 16-year old daughter, had been granted to John Rubick today by Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnston after Rubick filed a petition in superior court here yesterday, Rubick was allowed to accept a settlement of $1,000.

According to the petition, the girl had a claim for damages against the Foley and Burke company and Elbert Peneton. It is alleged that on October 8, 1934, the girl was riding as a guest in a car driven by Hymen Tessler on San Pablo avenue, between Buchanan and Solano avenues, Albany, when a collision with a Foley and Burke tractor occurred.

The Foley and Burke company offered to settle for $750 and $250 for medical bills and Rubick asked the court to be allowed to accept it.

SECOND WIFE OF H. A. TABOR IS FOUND DEAD

LEADVILLE, Colo., March 7—UP—"Baby Doe" second wife of H. A. W. Tabor, legendary figure in the early mining history of the west, was found dead today in the tumble-down shack at the foot of the Matchless silver mine where for more than 30 years she had waited for the restoration of the Tabor wealth.

In contrast with the splendor she knew as an actress and wife of "Silver Dollar", Mrs. Tabor died penniless. She was 73 years old.

BODY FOUND

Her body was found today by Thomas French, a miner. She had been dead about a week or 10 days, it was believed.

Her last appearance in Leadville was on February 21, when she trudged up the streets of this 'ghost' mining town to buy her weekly store of provisions. Persons who talked to her then noticed that she was suffering from a cold.

Death probably resulted from pneumonia.

GAUDY STORY

R. J. Dewar, assistant postmaster, ordinarily made one trip a week to the shack at the base of the Matchless—the diggings her husband had told her on his deathbed to guard.

This week, because of bad weather, Dewar did not make his customary trip to see her.

The story of "Baby Doe" and "Haw" Tabor, was a gay, gaudy, and—tragic classic, paralelled only by the story of silver from which the mighty Tabor fortune was wrought.

GOLDEN CHICKEN

NESTLETON STATION, Ont.,—UP—A chicken killed here recently by J. Goff was found to have a $300 golden nugget in its gizzard.

FRANCIS SMITH, general manager of the Standard Oil refinery here has been called to Franklin, Pa., by the serious illness of his mother.

L. A. Is Rocked By Two Quakes

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—UP—Two sharp earthquakes jarred the Los Angeles coastal plain today with a force that broke windows but produced no other damage.

The quakes occurred almost on the anniversary of the disastrous shock that killed upwards of 100 persons in Long Beach March 10, 1933.

Today's disturbance was confined to Long Beach, Huntington Park, Southgate, Englewood, Maywood and southern Los Angeles. Windows were shattered in Maywood and Englewood homes.

Mexican Rebel Is Seeking More Funds

MEXICO, D. F., March 7.—Followers of Jose Vasconcelos, exiled former presidential candidate, declared today they had received word that Vasconcelos was carrying on an active campaign in Texas and other Southwestern States for the purpose of raising funds and unifying elements opposing the present Mexican government.

Vasconcelos is in constant contact with emissaries from the center and north of Mexico, his supporters stated in circulars distributed widely throughout the city and other regions.

WALL STREET TRADERS ARE STILL WORRIED

NEW YORK, March 7.—UP—Security markets tonight continued to reflect national and international uncertainties as traders worried about:

1—Monetary matters — Wall Street believes that there will be further devaluation of the dollar. It is merely a question of the time. France proposed an international monetary conference to discuss stabilization or currencies feeling such to be necessary. Belgium reiterated her sound money policy.

2—WAR FEARED.

War disturbances—the Greek rebellion is uttering rumors of armaments and troop concentration in the Balkans. The Italo-Abyssinian difficulties are not abating. Captain Anthony Eden, Britain's Lord Privy Seal, in a speech said, "fears, frictions, and ambitions are darken the political horizon of Europe today."

3—The Stock market—Reported by many to be virtually frozen. Few bids and few offers appear. Some attribute this to the considerable regulation that has come in—regulation which has resulted in many suspensions around the 500,000 share mark—and the possibility of further regulation for floor traders and specialists.

NRA IN DOUBT

4—Legislation—The future of the NRA is up now and is especially outstanding in view of adverse court decisions against certain regulations. The mammoth relief bill is still pending. The soldiers bonus is pending with its various inflationary proposals. Tariff demands are current. Legislation affecting the utility holding companies and the railroads—relief for the latter—are still to be acted upon.

5—Business—The smart upward trend of the first month of the year has disappeared. In its place has come at least a flattening out. Steel production slipped back and is holding about steady, but with little indication of a pickup from the major consumers. Motor car production continues good.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, March 7—UP—The movie folk have ceased being gadabouts and have settled down to home and fireside.

Those who used to run to the Riviera on the slightest provocation, or visit other various and sundry places, may now be seen planning gardens, shopping for lots in Beverly Hills and Bel Air, and discussing plans with architects.

Even Fred Astaire, who used to hop from New York to London so regularly it was hard to tell whether he was abroad or at home has been stricken with the settling down influence.

And William Powell who has often said that he was going to retire some day and spend the rest of his time in a villa in southern France, has changed his mind. He's building a home on the outskirts of Hollywood and admits he's much too busy right now to think of such things as retirement.

One of Hollywood's most recently married couples, Ginger Rogers and Lew Ayres, went to a secluded cabin near by for their honeymoon instead of journeying to Europe or some other place.

Production schedules may have had something to do with that, but Ginger and Lew maintain they have decided to see America first, with particular emphasis on southern California.

Francis Lederer, who used to go on numerous jaunts, never mentions travel any more. And Katharine Hepburn as one would suspect, is one of the few celebrities who is the exception to the rule. She still makes jaunts to New York between pictures, but her stays in the east are becoming shorter and shorter.

PATROLMAN C. P. LILLY of the local police department is confined to his home, suffering from a cold.

Shadow Sale Of Mellon Stock Is Charged To Bank

PITTSBURGH, March 7.— Government charges that the $300,000,000 Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh served as a clearing house for alleged "shadow sales" in stocks for Andrew W. Mellon were denied today by Carl R. Korb, a vice president of the bank.

Korb told the Board of Tax Appeals, hearing Mellon's protest against $3,089,000 assessment on his 1931 income, that he handled one sale of 123,000 shares of Pittsburgh Coal stock.

The stock was sold by Mellon to Union Trust late in December, 1931, for $500,000. The financier claimed a loss of $5,500,000 on the transaction. About three months later the same stock was repurchased from Union Trust by the Mellon family holding concern, the Coalesced Company.

Administration Moves To Halt Tax Exemption

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Roosevelt Administration has raised a temporary ban, an authoritative source said today, against Congressional consideration of legislation to discontinue tax exempt securities.

The President is still of the opinion, some of his confidants said, that the idea of abolishing tax exemptions on future issues of Federal, State and municipal securities is a sound one.

Because of the still-increasing Federal debt, and the necessity of floating more bonds for recovery financing, the Administration is said to have asked Congressional leaders to avoid hearings on proposed legislation at this time.

DOUBLE BILL OF DRAMA AND FUN AT FOX

Romanie, thrills, mystery and suspense drama are combined in the two feature program opening at the Fox theater today when "The Best Man Wins" starring the new comedy team Jack Holt and Edmund Lowe; and "The Secret Bride" starring Barbara Stanwyck supported by Warren William, Glenda Farrell and Grant Mitchell; open a double bill today.

"The Secret Bride" opens with the marriage of Miss Stanwyck, a governor's daughter, to Warren William, the district attorney. Hardly have they finished the ceremony when William is informed that his office has certain proof that the governor has accepted bribes from a recently paroled convict. From here on the suspense and political intrigue is said to unfold a fascinating drama.

"The Best Man Wins" also screening, is rated as an exciting romance of the "sez you-sez me" variety with Holt and Lowe always at war for honors in their respective lines of endeavor. Running through the story is a spirited romantic rivalry for the hand of a pretty miss, a part played by Florence Rice, a new-comer in pictures and the daughter of Grantland Rice, sports writer. J. Farrell MacDonald and Bela Lugosi also have important roles in the film.

Youth Is Found Guilty By Jury In Murder Case

GREELEY, Colo., March 7. — Leonard Belongia, 24, formerly of Coleman, Wisconsin, was found guilty of first degree murder in a verdict returned last evening by a District Court jury, which recommended the death penalty.

Belongia, an ex-convict, shot and killed his employer, Albert Oosterick, 57, rancher, last Fall after the latter had refused to advance him money which Belongia claimed was due him.

Defense counsel was granted permission to file a motion for a new trial.

Belongia smiled when the verdict was read. He had admitted the slaying.

Thousands Dying In Chinese Plague

HAICHOW, Kiangsu Province, China, March 7.—American medical missionaries, both men and women, plunged today into a silent fight against a mysterious scourge of Oriental black fever, which is causing thousands of deaths.

The medical personnel of the American Southern Presbyterian Mission, with headquarters at Nashville, Tenn., comprise the group trying to save the hordees of poverty-stricken fever victims.

An area of 25,000 square miles containing a population of 5,000,000 Chinese, is affected.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, March 7—One of the most significant behind-the-scenes developments in inner White House circles is the way the President has quietly but definitely shelved pro-labor minded Secretary Frances Perkins as one of his counsellors.

Until recently she was always consulted on policies affecting labor. But on three consecutive occasions Roosevelt either has not sought her views or rejected them when given.

Miss Perkins opposed renewal of the auto code unless it was revised to give labor a better break. But the President turned the entire question over to Don Richberg.

On the day the code was renewed Miss Perkins tried repeatedly to get in touch with the "Assistant President," and although only a few blocks separated them she was unable to reach him.

She did not know the code had been extended until informed late that night by newsmen she met at a White House reception.

A week later when the President sent the cigarette code to her for an expression of opinion she recommended certain pro-labor changes. The code was signed by Roosevelt without change.

Miss Perkins has sided with the Senate Liberals on the prevailing wage issue. But the President has not once consulted her about the matter.

And now she has received another rebuff.

For several months Miss Perkins has been pressing the A. F. of L.'s demand on Roosevelt that labor be given another member on the NRA board. The retirement of Dr. Henry A. Millis from the National Labor Relations Board seemed to open the way for such a change.

Miss Perkins proposed that he be replaced by Professor Walton H. Hamilton who is now on the NRA Board, and that a laborite be appointed to the NRA in Hamilton's place.

The President appeared sold on the plan.

But at this point "Assistant President" Richberg stepped in.

He vigorously opposed any change in the NRA board line-up. He had devised the board, he declared, and to add another labor member would "throw it out of balance".

So Miss Perkins' plan went aglimmering.

Sincerely devoted and loyal to the President, the Labor Secretary has taken her spankings in silence.

But to insiders there are signs that she is far from happy.

THE PEOPLE'S VOICE

North Carolina's engaging Bob Reynolds was one Senator who really got emphatic reverberations from his home-folks for opposing the President in the work-relief wage controversy.

Bob voted for the McCarran prevailing wage amendment. When this momentous word reached Beaufort County, N. C., a trial was in progress in the Superior Court.

This fact, however, did not disturb one of the attorneys, H. S. Ward, a former member of Congress who was known in the House as "Hot-Stuff".

Ward interrupted the trial as follows:

"If your Honor please, I have a matter which I think is more important than this case. I have just received word that Bob Reynolds voted against the President and I think we ought to recess this case so the Bar Association can meet and discuss the matter."

"I think that is a good idea, Mr. Ward," replied the judge. "The Court will take a recess for an hour."

Whereupon the Beaufort County Bar Association convened in solemn conclave, and after debating Senator Reynold's action, adopted a resolution that his vote in favor of the McCarran amendment "was not representative of the sentiments of the Beaufort County citizenship."

WAY OUT

The Senate Post Office Committee has been offered an interesting suggestion for a way out of its dilemma on what to do about Huey Long's resolution to investigate Jim Farley.

The Committee has been worriedly sitting on the lid of the resolution for some weeks—definitely opposed to it yet afraid to veto it for fear Huey will capitalize the idea that the Administration dared not expose the Postmaster General to a public airing.

The proposed solution is risky but bold.

The committee would agree to undertake the probe. But with an added provision—that it also be authorized to investigate Huey.

Committee members to whom the idea was broached agreed that it was ingenious. But they were dubious of the practicability of investigating Huey.

It was a job they would like very much to see done, but none wanted to tackle it.

As one member put it: "Sure, we'd all like to see the cat belled. But no one wants to do the belling."

POSSIBLE

A significant change has taken place behind the scenes on Capitol Hill regarding legislation for fixing the work-week.

When the 30-hour measure was revived early in the session, floor leaders brushed it aside as not having a chance.

Privately, they are talking differently now.

They say there is strong possibility that a work-week limiting bill may be enacted. They express doubt that it will be a rigid 30-hour measure, more likely a compromise at a higher figure, permitting certain exceptions.

The fact that Congressional leaders are voicing these views has greatly alarmed industrial moguls.

Reason for the changed Congressional situation is the Administration's abandonment of all pretense that the NRA can do anything about reducing unemployment rolls. Also there is growing pressure by organized labor for enactment of a statutory work-week.

Few recall the fact that the Senate passed a 30-hour bill in the 1933 special session.

And it was this action which prompted the president, who was against the measure, to take up the Baruch-Johnsen suggestion of a National Industrial Administration.

NEW YORK, March 7—Bernard K. Marcus and Saul Singer, convicted heads of the ruined Bank of United States, came out of prison last week. It's already two years since they were sent to jail, but it seems only yesterday that the excited panicky crowds of depositors lined up at the various closed branches in the city clamoring for their money.

The depositors shouted for blood then. Now everyone feels just a little bit sorry for the convicted officials. New Yorkers cannot harbor hate for long. In a spasm of anger they will send a Tweed to jail, banish a Jimmie Walker from the country, or convict a Lieutenant Becker for bribery and murder. Next day they are all smiles and sympathy, and the whole business starts all over again.

It would be simpler to get a permanent scapegoat and keep him in jail forever.

EXIT THE GREAT—The American Spectator has suspended publication after two and a half years. It had a galaxy of brillian names as editors, recruited from the town's famous. Youthful-looking George Jean Nathan was in charge. Ernest Boyd with his beard, Eugene O'Neill with his glum jaw, and preacher-visaged Sherwood Anderson helped choose manuscripts. Heavy-jowled Theodore Dreiser was also in on the confabs up to a few months ago.

Nathan's announcement said the editors were "tired" of running the magazine. Maybe the contributors were, too. Payment for articles was exactly one cent a word, which just about covered postage. Apparently the editorial idea was that writers can fill their bellies with glory. Result—the magazine began to be filled up with discarded fribbles dug up from old trunks.

No wonder the editors got tired of reading the stuff. They should have known that you can't secure masterpieces by handing out visiting cards.

OO-LA-LA—The Revue Folies Bergeres is setting records for theater-restaurants, with a gross business of almost half a million dollars in two months. The food is very good at the French Casino, but that isn't what the crowds are coming for.

It's the "French" idea that's the magnet. Floor shows are pretty much the same all over town. Dancing choruses, an acrobat or two, some singers, an Apache dance, and a few other time-tired items make up the schedule. The new spot on Seventh Avenue and 50th Street, however, adds a Parisian fillip to the proceedings. The costumes are of Continental flavor, the girls really come from Paris and the spirit of the ensemble has a dash of the European informality absent from the typically American show.

All the men whose ambition to get to a Paris show has never been satisfied are grateful for this substitute. After all, there may not be another war for some time.

Suit For $20,000 In Auto Accident Death Is Denied

WOODLAND, March 7.—A Superior Court jury here yesterday afternoon returned a verdict denying damages in the $20,000 automobile death suit brought by Chauncey H. Dunn as administrator of the estate of Ana Marie Nance against Martin F. Edwards and Evadine Edwards.

Mrs. Nance was killed April 14, 1934, when she was struck by a car driven by Edwards as she was walking along the center of the highway beetween Davis and Sacramento.

The accident occurred at night and Edwards testified that he never saw the woman, being aware of the accident only by the jar of the car striking her body.

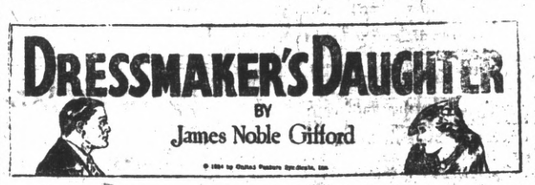
DRESSMAKER'S DAUGHTER



By James Noble Gifford

When Carol Morris' widowed mother, a small town dressmaker, suddenly dies, Carol sets out for New York to seek a career, though John Clark, who is in love with her, tries to dissuade her. In New York, she takes a job in Morgan's department store, where she is soon promoted into the office of Mr. Jackson, Paris buyer. Meanwhile, she has met the wealthy Ranny Sterling, who asks her to marry him, but Carol's one ambition is to achieve success. Mr. Jackson takes her to Paris as his assistant and, when he is unexpectedly called home, Carol is left in complete charge of the buying for Morgan's. On her return home, however, her purchases fail to sell.

CHAPTER XX

BY THE end of the week, Carol's fears were realized to the fullest extent. Late Saturday morning, she was summoned to the office of Mr. Strang, the president. He greeted her coolly, and addressed her with his hands folded before him, like a judge pronouncing sentence.

"Miss Morris, I've been giving special attention to the movement of your Parisian purchases. I'm not pleased at all."

"I'm sorry, Mr. Strang."

"I think you have reason to be. You were given a most unusual opportunity — in fact, the most unusual in my long years of experience. I think Mr. Jackson is at least partly to blame for thrusting such a burden on you. Why didn't you say you felt you were too inexperienced?"

"I didn't feel so. And I don't now. I think I bought beautiful things."

He smiled acidly. "We have only one test of beauty here. Things either sell or they do not sell. You'll agree as to which class your purchases fall into."

"Maybe in a little while——" she began, but he cut her short with a gesture.

"Even a special sale and special advertising have failed to arouse interest in your purchases. We must put them aside and go on with what we had before. As to yourself"—he shrugged—"I think that is obvious."

She trembled a little at the meaning behind his words. "I could try——"

He stopped her. "I'm afraid we are not rich enough to dare let you try any more. I'm sorry, Miss Morris, but you have failed—completely. There is only one answer. If you will go to the cashier, he will give you two weeks' pay. Good morning, Miss Morris."

SHE almost stumbled out of the office. Discharged! It seemed such an incredible thing. A month ago, Rupert Woodward had prophesied this, and it had seemed ridiculous to her. Now it had come to pass. Morgan's had discharged her!

So Rupert Woodward had his Second Act, after all. That thought kept running through her mind as she left the store that evening. The crowds seemed greater than ever, and it was one of those murky hot days under which New York so often suffers. It was almost unbearable.

Back in her little apartment, the very walls seemed to be closing in on her, and she felt she simply had to go somewhere, talk to someone. She had not seen much of either Dolly Winthrop or Ranny Sterling since her return from Paris. She had been too busy to do much socially.

She picked up the phone and called Dolly Winthrop's studio, only to find that Miss Winthrop had gone to her place in Newport for the summer. She called Ranny and was not surprised to get no answer. About a week before, she had broken an engagement with him, called him up at the last minute and said she was too busy. She really had not been busy—only tired. Yet even when he told her that he was going away for the summer, she had still declined to go out with him.

Ranny hadn't seemed very important that night. Everything had seemed to center on justifying herself to the officials of Morgan's store. And now, Morgan's store had told her that her services were no longer required. Just like that.

SHE suddenly realized that she was still sitting with the telephone in her hand. She put it down quickly and walked away from it. But she did want somebody to talk to. She was overwhelmed with a kind of dull loneliness.

As long as she had been mounting the ladder of success, she had never been lonely. She had had too much to think about. But now, all at once, the pretty bubble had burst, and she felt she simply had to find someone to talk to, someone to whom she could cry out, "I've been discharged. Morgan's has kicked me out. I haven't any place to go."

Who was there? She picked up the phone again, and called all the people she knew, one after another. There was no answer from Rupert Woodward's apartment, and she remembered he was probably in California. Vera Coates had gone to Southampton for the week-end. Tracy Jennifer was in the Adirondacks. So much for the group she had cultivated.

In desperation, she called Bette Silvers. But she was told that Miss Silvers was now playing in Chicago. There was no one else. She put down the phone drearily.

Well, if there was nothing else to do, she would have to go for a walk alone. She put on her hat. Anything was better than to sit here in her room, saying over and over to herself, "Failure! Failure! Failure!"

SHE pulled open the door of her apartment, then started back as she saw a man standing with his finger raised to press the bell.

"Do I look like a ghost, Carol?"

For an instant, she gaped. Then, with a glad cry, she fairly flung herself into his arms.

"John! I'm so glad to see you! Where have you come from? Just when I was thinking about you!"

"Were you really thinking about me, Carol?" He flushed with pleasure. "You know, it's funny the way you just popped out of that door. I believe I was standing a full minute with my hand ready to press the bell, and I couldn't make myself do it. I was afraid you wouldn't want to see me, even if you were home—which I doubted. A successful girl like you must have a million places to go every evening."

She laughed strangely. Her voice sounded foreign even to herself as she said huskily:

"Maybe a million places I don't want to go. John, if I'm a very good girl, won't you please take me to the movies?"

it exists, despite the fact of all the evidence to the contrary. When some people lay the bluff we are not at all surprised, but candidly we are puzzled that Mr. Donovan would place himself in such a position. It is our opinion that momentarily the attorney-mayor permitted his anger to get the better of his judgment, and upon due reflection he will resume his old and friendly relations with the press of his city.

A DIRECT INSULT

Congress has throttled the Townsend bill, showing more foot courage and greater lack of sense than we attributed to it. As has been apparent, this column has never been an advocate of the measure, as we did not believe it practicable or feasible. But we have always been a firm adherent of the principle that provision must be made for the needy aged.

By refusing to allow the Townsend measure to be reported to the floor of the House of Representatives with a resultant free discussion as to its merits or disadvantages, notice has been served upon 20,000,000 people that they have been refused a day in court and their mandate has been thrown into the wastebasket. The action was discourteous and un-American and I predict that the repercussions will not be very pleasant sounds in the ears of the men who have forgotten one of the purposes for which they were elected—the right to be heard by even the most humble citizen.

LINCOLN P. T. A. IN PLANS FOR CARD PARTY

With Mrs. E. N. Leggett presiding, the Lincoln P. T. A. convened at the school yesterday to discuss plans for coming events.

At that time it was announced that election of officers will be held by the P. T. A. at the next meeting. The following committee was named to nominate new officers: Mrs. George Shaw, Mrs. Trulla Spires, Mrs. James Belson and Mrs. J. A. Brien.

Plans were also discussed for a card party to be held on the evening of March 15. On the committee are: Mrs. Nettie Salisbury, Mrs. Trulla Spires, Mrs. T. L. Cottrell, Mrs. H. Hammock, Mrs. E. Leggett, Mrs. W. E. Blair and Mrs. Irene Carey.

Following the business meeting, a program was enjoyed. Children of the school presented skits and drills in keeping with St. Patrick's Day. Miss A. Folges, economics teacher at the junior high school gave an interesting talk on school economics.

The next meeting of the P. T. A. will be held in April.

RICHBERG HIT BY NRA CRITIC AT SOLON MEET

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(UP)—President Roosevelt tonight shifted full responsibility for the success or failure of the NRA squarely upon Congress in a 17-point program designed to safeguard the New Deal project from blistering criticism, sabotage and court attacks.

The Administration's stand was presented by Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the National Emergency Council and one of the most influential figures in the high tribunal of recovery. He faced the Senate Finance Committee, which includes vigorous NRA critics, for two hours outlining revisions in the present law which will determine the fate of federal aid in industrial self-rule.

CRITICS ATTACK PLAN

At the close of his testimony, NRA foes condemned the proposed changes as "vague," "restricted" and united in the feeling that Richberg "did not go far enough."

The entire morning session was taken up by Richberg in the reading of a lengthy prepared statement. He was asked to return tomorrow for interrogation. The tall, bald New Dealer was interrupted often but showed no impatience. He sat flanked by S. Clay Williams, retiring head of the NRA governing board, and other officials of the agency.

LEWIS OPPOSES PLAN

In the rear of the room stood John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America and one of Richberg's bitterest foes. The union leader recently denounced Richberg as a "traitor" to labor.

Richberg gave no intimation that he was aware of hostile feeling. He didn't pull his punches. He said bluntly that in revising the present NRA act that Congress must more clearly and specifically define its wishes concerning price fixing, production control, Section 7-A, cut-throat competition restrictions, price-cutting and other features of the situation, which have been fought out in open forums, in executive offices, on factory floors and in the courts.

To the industrialists he said that much of the strife surrounding Section 7-A of the Recovery Act could have been averted had they from the first conceded the right of labor to improve its economic status through collective bargaining.

ADMITS MISTAKES

At the same time, however, Richberg said emphatically that Unionists have no legal justification for waging war against company unions as long as these factory units are not "company-controlled" or dominated unions.

Finally he quoted statistics to show that the consumer had not fared badly under the NRA and that in most instances the New Deal had been a savior to small business operations which have battled helplessly for years against large combinations.

Richberg admitted readily that in some instances code authorities have acted in a high-handed manner and exceeded their authority under the law.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

St. Vitus' Dance Is Not a Nervous Ailment, But an Infectious Disease Like Articular Rheumatism

THOSE afflicted with St. Vitus' dance usually feel that it is a nervous disease and want advice about quieting the nerves. It is not a nervous disease; indeed it is an acute infectious disease, very much like acute articular rheumatism. In fact, it is so closely allied to articular rheumatism that it is frequently referred to as rheumatism of the brain and nervous system.

DR. CHRISMAN

It occurs with rheumatism or is followed by it. It comes from the same source, such as infected tonsils and teeth or other focal infections and is frequently followed by the same results, like inflammation of the inner lining of the heart.

It is a disease of young folks between the ages of five and fifteen—especially girls—and seldom occurs in adults, except in young women with their first child, in which case it is quite serious.

It comes on suddenly in a mild form and grows worse. There is usually headache, sick stomach, and constipation with slight fever. The principal signs are involuntary muscular twitchings. The patient knows that he is jerking, but cannot control it, nor can he hold the muscles steady. One group of muscles or one muscle will contract, and then another.

THERE are all degrees of severity. The face, hands, arms, eyes, legs, all may jerk at times. First one eye may twitch, then the mouth draws up on one side or the other. One arm will jerk and the patient may throw anything he is carrying in any direction. A foot will jerk up, or slop down. The movement of the muscles is quick and of short duration.

There is no uniformity in the movements and the patient has no knowledge of any motion till it occurs, and he cannot stop one that starts. The mind is less active then normal and the perception is dulled. Mental reactions are sluggish; he is likely to become morose, self-conscious, and irritable with some loss of memory.

The tongue is often affected and he cannot talk plainly, the speech is hesitant, mumbling, and sometimes, for a short time, he cannot speak at all. The disease is due to infection, but is often precipitated by some shock, mental or physical, such as fright, over work, worry about school, or injury. There is almost no pain with the disease except headache, but the accompanying arthritis may produce severe pain, fever, and great weakness.

We call it rheumatism of the brain, but very seldom does any injury to the brain occur. Sometimes there is a slight congestion of the membranes covering the brain. Death does not occur, except from the heart disease resulting from the arthritis. If the patient can get rest and suffer no complications, the disease is self-limited.

MILD cases recover in from three to ten weeks. The average is about five weeks, though severe untreated cases may run on for six months. If the cause can be found and removed recurrences are not likely, but any mental shock or physical injury may bring it back.

It almost never becomes chronic. Being so closely related to articular rheumatism, the treatment is much the same. Rest in bed is necessary in severe cases, and physical and mental rest is always wise. Sedative drugs may be prescribed. It has been found that in almost all cases of St. Vitus' dance there is a deficiency of calcium in the blood. Until the calcium balance is restored they do not recover completely. So, one of the first considerations is restoring the calcium.

The salicylates which do so much for rheumatism are also indicated. A very good combination of calcium and salicylates is provided in a new combination of calcium aspirin. Only lately has a preparation been made that was table and did not deteriorate.

Seventy-five grains of calcium lactate a day to a child ten to twelve years old will shorten the course of the disease very materially, and if the focal infections are removed there should be no recurrence. Sedative drugs, the bromides, may be necessary for a short time.

SMOKEY CITIES MAKE FOR REAL MAKEUP RIDDLE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

WOMEN who are smart and attractive are the women who really "see" themselves critically, yet know very well what they want to look like. With this in mind they know how to select their cosmetics, and work out their own beauty rules to accomplish their ends.

Some use powder and rouge because other women do, or because they want to brighten a drab skin. They use make-up without taste or vision. There are women of this type everywhere, but they seem more noticeable in the middle-sized industrial cities.

Women in smoky, dirty cities invariably make the mistake of buying vivid cosmetics in an effort to offset the grayness of their skins, with the result that they look horribly artificial and drab than if cosmetics had been omitted altogether. Try to see yourselves accurately. If your skin is sallow find out why.

MISS HUNT

If you live in a smoky city, the drabness may be due to imbedded grime in the pores of the skin that defies ordinary cleansing measures, or to fine sediment deposited on the surface of the skin. These must be removed with thick soapy lather and warm water three times a day and the skin treated with tonics and lotions to whip up the circulation.

Check up on diet and elimination, drink more water and get outdoors more. But, first of all, stress cleanliness. Find the method that is best for you. Use a quick-melting cleansing cream first, if you feel that your soap and water cleansing is most satisfactory that way. Or use a complexion brush.

Do not expect a long-standing case of sallowness to clear up overnight. And do not get a pink powder to cover it up. Better get a rachel or beige powder that has a little rose added to it. This will make the skin seem a little clearer and fresher in tone, but naturally so.

Then select rouge and lipstick in one of the duskier or more orange reds, and use them sparingly. A small amount of rouge, blended softly into your foundation over the cheek bones gives the cheeks a petal-like softness. Just touch your lips with your lip rouge, then spread the color sparingly within the natural outlines with your fingertips.

Better avoid eye make-up altogether during the daytime if you live in a grimy city. Eye make-up usually has an oily base that catches and holds every bit of soot that comes in contact with it, so your subtly made-up eyes may look black and blue before you get home. And in spite of all the practical little gadgets available, it isn't an easy matter to change your eye make-up during the day.

Representative Rayburn of Texas Takes Leading Part in House's Utility Holding Company Bill

REPRESENTATIVE SAM RAYBURN of Texas, has been growing into greater importance steadily during his twenty-two years of service in Washington. Not conservative, he now sponsors the Utilities Holding Company Bill, which clamps down on the concentrated ownership of numerous corporations.

Mr. Rayburn declares his bill is conservative, however, pointing out that by demanding fair play it protects honest private interests from the depredations of those who would kill their own goose by over-high rates. He feels that those now opposing the Government's program for utilities will like it after a few months, becoming accustomed to the idea, even as the security markets did last year when the Government stepped in.

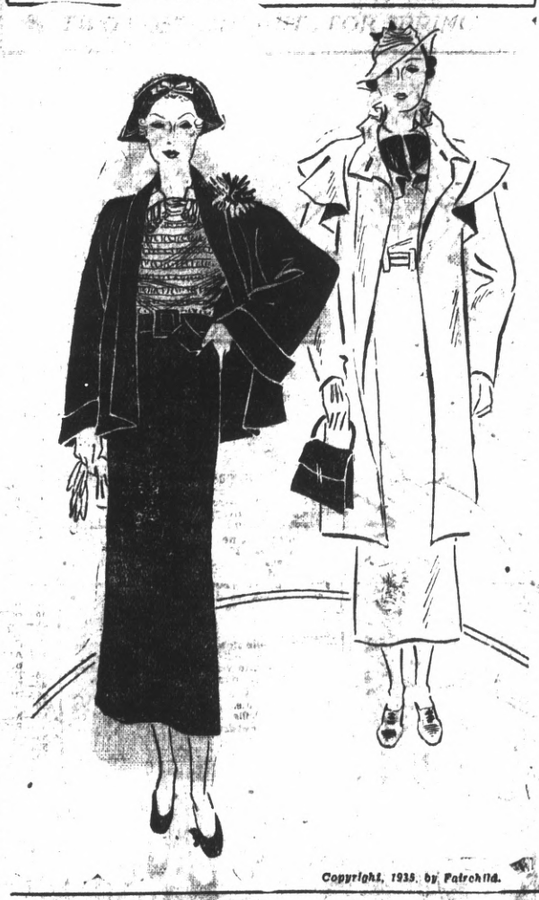
The House's new rising star began his public career early, when twenty-five, and not long out of college. He was elected to the Texas Legislature, and soon found himself on the Railroad Committee. This started him studying rails and utilities and it wasn't long before he was accounted an expert on those subjects. At twenty-nine he became Speaker of the Legislature, and two years later he was elected to Congress.

His long success there was brought to a climax when the Democratic party gained the ascendancy. He has been responsible for many of the victories scored by the Government for its New Deal policies. As soon as the Democrats had won control of the House, Mr. Rayburn was made chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee. He immediately brought Walter M. W. Splawn from the University of Texas to report on rail and utility holding companies, with the result that the committee has been working to push through legislation to control them. Last year Mr. Splawn was set upon the telephone and telegraph companies, following which the Communications Act was passed.

The Representative from Texas is primarily a business type—an executive who can find out through other people the information he has to have. Then he does something about it all.

Print Designs Are As Ingenious As Ever,' With "Doggy" Patterns Season's Novelty

TWO COSTUME SUITS FOR SPRING



Copyright, 1935, by Patrchild.

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Among the minor mysteries of life is the apparently inexhaustible source of inspiration for prints. There must be one, for each season brings its own characteristic designs. Peasant prints are everywhere, but so are all manner of others. By way of relief, prints are made on a wider variety of fabrics than formerly, and believe it or not, are used in new ways.

And it's a spotty sort of wear, if the newest print collections are any criterion. Naturally they are, and an excellent one. But newer than spots, which are not much newer than the everlasting mills excepting in the way they are changed about, are the doggy prints. Literally, the doggy ones. If you have not already seen the smart, dark prints, the motif of which is a white Sealyham, or the smart white ones over which black Scotties parade, "you ain't seen nothin'." They are extremely effective and promise to make no end of a furore. One such print has a very set arrangement, the tip of the Scottie's tail tickling the nose of the Scotty above him, the whole design forming a sort of checkerboard effect.

It's not the first time animal motifs have been introduced on fabric. Not all of them have been well received, but the opportunity of "putting on the dog." I am sure, is not going to be passed by.

Sketched today at left is a version of the soft jacket costume with one-piece dress introducing striped matelasse in rose color. The jacket has the slim tuxedo front and fulness massed at back that is important for this type of suit.

In the ensemble at the right the dress is of beige wool, with bolero-like revers faced in brown taffeta. In the coat the contrasting trimming is carried into the rippled shoulder sections.

At right of the column is an interpretation of the bloused silhouette. In this instance the black velvet wrap confines bloused fulness at the sides, the front of the bodice bordered in white ermine.

QUESTION: "I have hair that is a real problem. On top it is almost pure white, although it is grey speckled with black at the sides and the underneath hair around my neck is almost black. I like my hair shingled in the back, but it looks terrible now with a black streak at my neckline. Should I try to bleach the dark hairs?—Mrs. Roe."

Personally, I feel that your coiffure might look interesting rather than terrible. Many women like to use a temporary hair dye to make a streak of darker hair through their own locks, and really the effect is stunning at times. If you really think the dark streak of hair detracts from your appearance, however, I would suggest that you change to a softer coiffure which allows the white and gray hairs to curl over the dark portion. You shouldn't attempt the bleach.

QUESTION: "My lips are very thick and conspicuous. I feel that they detract a great deal from my appearance. Are there reducing exercises that would help?—G."

I'm afraid that the only way you can change the shape of your lips is by resorting to plastic surgery, and only in extreme cases is this advisable. If vanity prompts you to have this done, however, get the name of a good plastic surgeon from your nearest hospital or from your local health department.

Many Meatless Main Dishes Available for Lenten Menus

By JUDITH WILSON

WHETHER or not you observe Lent, you will find new recipes for meatless dishes welcome. Fish, eggs, cheese and the ordinary vegetable standbys can be combined in numerous tasty ways. And what is more to the point right now, these dishes are economical and tempting to jaded appetites.

Italian Minestrone

Soak one cup dried beans overnight in cold water, drain and put to cook in seven cups water and let simmer until the beans are tender. Meanwhile chop one small onion, one clove garlic, a sprig of parsley and one stalk celery and fry in one-fourth cup olive oil until light brown. Add to the beans with one-half teaspoon salt, one-third teaspoon pepper, one cup tomato pulp, one cup coarsely chopped cabbage, one cup macaroni broken into pieces. Simmer for about three-quarters of an hour longer. Serve sprinkled with grated Parmesan cheese. This will make about ten average servings. Meat broth may be substituted for the water if you wish.

Curried Tuna Fish

Melt four tablespoons butter, blend in six tablespoons flour and one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon curry powder and a few grains pepper. Add two cups milk gradually, and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thick. Add two and one-half cups tuna fish that has been broken into pieces. Fill scallop shells or individual ramekins two-thirds full of the mixture, sprinkle with soft buttered crumbs and bake about ten minutes in a hot oven. The crumbs should be delicately browned.

Rice and Egg Ramekins

Melt two tablespoons butter, add two tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt and a few grains pepper. Add one cup milk slowly and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until the sauce is thick. Add one-half cup grated cheese and stir until melted. Add two cups cooked rice and blend well. Line individual baking dishes with the mixture, break an egg into each and bake in a moderate oven about fifteen minutes or until the eggs are set.

Creamed Celery

Scrub and dice enough white celery stalks to make two cups full and stew in boiling salted water until tender. Wash green peppers, cut into strips and measure. Use one-half cup peppers to two of celery. Parboil for five minutes in salted water, add to the celery and drain both thoroughly. Add to a rich white sauce that has been well-seasoned with paprika.

Steamed Carrot Pudding

Wash two-thirds cup each of raisins and currants and drain on absorbent paper. Mix and sift two-thirds cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, three-fourths teaspoon each salt, soda and cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoon each of cloves and nutmeg. Add the raisins and currants ad stir until well coated. Add one-half cup sugar and two-thirds cup each of grated raw potatoes and grated raw carrot. Beat until the mixture is well blended and put into a buttered mold. Steam two and one-half hours.

Hard Sauce

Cream four tablespoons butter and add gradually one cup sifted brown sugar. Add a pinch of salt, one teaspoon lemon juice and one-half teaspoon of vanilla. If you wish the stiffly beaten white or yolk of an egg will give richness and fluffiness to the finished sauce.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "A young man who calls on me always brings flowers, candy, a magazine or a book. He never comes empty-handed. My mother thinks it wrong and that I ought to discourage the idea. What do you say?—Betty B."

ANSWER: A discreet young lady does not accept expensive gifts from a young man calling on her. But there is no reason why she should not accept such gifts as you name so long as the young man can afford them. On the other hand, a girl should know that in accepting such favors she encourages a young man's attentions. She should not do this unless she sincerely likes him, as then she becomes a "gold-digger."

QUESTION: "My father died the week after I became engaged. Would it be wrong for me to wear my engagement ring during the period of mourning?—C. C. D."

ANSWER: You may wear it. Jewelry is not worn with mourning dress, but an engament and wedding ring are exceptions to this rule.

Preventing Tea Stains

Tea stains are not easily removed. Many homemakers, therefore, take this precaution: They add a lump of sugar to the tea pot before making the tea. This prevents the tea staining the cloth if spilled.

You and Your Child

GENEROSITY IS BORN IN A CHILD, CAN'T BE MADE

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

WHEN Cynthia's mother takes her out for an afternoon airing, she generally wraps up a cooky or a graham cracker and takes it along. Around about three o'clock Cynthia sometimes gets hungry if she has been playing hard. Her mother therefore likes to be prepared to give her something wholesome instead of buying candy which may spoil her appetite for dinner.

The other day a little friend came up as Cynthia received a cooky. The other child looked at the cooky hungrily. Cynthia may have seen the look. But I doubt whether this would have made any difference. For while four-year olds may have powerful imaginations, their interest centers in themselves at this point of development. They are not yet able, in other words, to understand that others have feelings like their own. It was a generous impulse, therefore, that moved Cynthia to offer, "Want a piece?"

MRS. GOWARD

Mother looked interested and pleased. "That's right, Cynthia," she said approvingly. The child was about to break off a piece to give her playmate. Observing that it was a conspicuously small piece, mother changed her tone. "Cynthia," she criticized, "that piece is too small. Give the little girl a larger piece."

Immediately, Cynthia withdrew her hand and the offer. She quickly chewed up the morsel which she had intended bestowing on the other child as a gift, in an impulse of generosity. Mother was horrified. "Why Cynthia!" By now the cooky was practically gone. In another instant it—the whole cooky incident in fact, would be a thing of the past unless mother were to make a point of harping on the matter.

If you see evidence of spontaneous giving, praise the young child by all means. But don't attempt to tell him how much to give. Let him be the judge of that. The impulse as yet is purely personal. Be satisfied that he gives at all, this is the first step toward unselfishness. In time he will learn to make it worthwhile. You cannot teach generosity, it is born of itself.

Short Cuts

It is a good idea when you paint the cellar floor to paint about eight inches of the wall above the floor of the same color. This prevents the lighter wall above from getting splashed when the floor is being swept or mopped.

For the kitchen window you need such plants as an onion or two in a small pot, or chives, and a pot of parsley. Thus kitchen greens are made quickly available. These plants will add a pretty touch to the kitchen and are at hand when making salads and other dishes that call for onion or parsley.

MODERN WOMEN

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

The Question of Whether It Is Proper for Girls to Walk About Town Wearing Shorts

IT SEEMS a sad commentary on women that laws should have to be passed or the authorities appealed to, to enforce modesty.

"My dear Mrs. Martin: I wonder what you think of the prevailing habit among young girls of wearing shorts on the street (in the summer time, of course) and of going about as unclad as possible. We live in a town which is something of a summer resort and has a beach. My girls (I have three) have made my life miserable because I won't let them go out in crazy-looking pajamas and in shorts. They tell me that the city girls do it when they come up our way, and therefore it must be all right. Personally, I think it's terrible, and as I don't go around much, am writing you to ask whether it is general and considered proper.

"Suburban."

MRS. MARTIN

It seems only kindness to warn women about shorts, not against them, but about them. They are not acceptable in every community, and indeed in some places action has been taken.

Your girls may be impressed by the fact that the authorities in the Bahamas—Nassau, in particular, have gone so far as to protest against tourists wearing shorts. The following letter was dispatched to the steamship lines whose cruise ships made Nassau a port of call.

"FOR some time there has been an increasing number of cruise passengers landing on Prince George's wharf and then walking along Bay Street in various bits of clothing which are on the borderline of being insufficient for decency.

"We believe that the best interests of all concerned will be furthered if you will call the attention of your principals to the objection which exists to ladies walking on Bay Street in 'shorts' or any costume which is likely to offend the ordinary individual.

"The board is voicing the opinion of Nassau when it says that 'shorts' and similar costumes should be reserved for the bathing beaches and the sports fields."

You mothers are wrong in making such an issue a question of morals or modesty. It's more a question of good taste, really, and would seem to bear greater weight on that than other scores.

It would probably be next to impossible to get a well-bred man to stroll around town in any such abbreviated attire. Indeed, there might be many women who would be greatly offended by such a display, and that's what makes it all the harder to understand why girls—even older women—can make such an exhibition of themselves.

I DOUBT any one would object to shorts in their proper place, but it hardly seems that the streets of any resort was the place for them. Such attire is no more appropriate for village streets than a high hat and tail coat would be, and just as ridiculous. If the residents of Nassau, where it is pretty hot, feel that there is no excuse for shorts being worn about town, those of us who live much farther away from the Equator should not be able to find any excuse for wearing them on promenade.

Your girls, and others, too, would rebel openly at being made to appear in clothes inappropriate to the occasion. Try getting them to go to a party in a morning dress or to a tea in a ballroom gown, and see what their reactions will be. It's just as ridiculous to wear shorts when one is doing nothing to justify such attire.

You possibly know that there were long discussions about this short subject before women were allowed to use them for athletic play. Some country clubs do not sanction women golfers or tennis players wearing them even yet. That there was even the slightest doubt of shorts being good taste under such circumstances should establish their status for ordinary usage. There are any number of tennis and summer costumes being offered with shorts, and a skirt to wear to and from the courts or links.

Y. M. I. Council Will Give Its Annual Dance

Burke Council of Y. M. I., meeting last night in Memorial hall, discussed final details for the annual St. Patrick's day dance to be held on the evening of March 16 at Memorial hall.

According to advance sales of tickets, it is expected that one of the largest crowds on record will be in attendance. The affair will be given jointly by the Y. M. I. and Y. L. I.

The Council will also attend the big district initiation which will be held on March 10 at Pinole. A large class of candidates will be inducted into the order.

John Sindicich, Jr., presided over last evening's meeting.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, calomel, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly smart and cheerful and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Just don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25 cent druggists. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Legislature Approves Bay Park Project

SACRAMENTO, March 7.— The Senate Judiciary Committee today reported out with a do pass recommendation the bill of Senator William F. Knowland, of Alameda county, to provide for the validation of the organization of regional park districts.

The measure will speed the plans of the Eastbay Regional Park District, created by vote of the people last November.

Knowland explained to the committee that the Eastbay Regional Park District, made up of parts of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, is the only district affectede by the act.

Two Girls Rob Jewelry Shop of Seven Dollars

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—Two girls, both handsomely attired in evening gowns and one carrying a small pistol, early today backed S. P. Schassler, jeweler, into an alleyway and robbed him of $7.

The victim said one of the girls, a blond, stuck the gun into his face while the other went through his pockets.

After the hold-up he said the two told him to "keep going" and not to look back. He didn't.

FLOODS IN VALLEY AREA ARE FEARED

an inch fell while yesterday from seven in the morning until five in the evening .08 of an inch of rain fell.

By UNITED PRESS

Rain, snow and hail deluged Northern and Central California Thursday on the heels of a gale that swept out of the Pacific 24 hours before and left behind it destruction and disorder.

Basements in San Francisco were inundated; high tension lines in Oakland were blown down; Sacramento valley roads were flooded; hail damaged spring fruit buds in the San Joaquin valley.

TRAIN DERAILED

The Southern Pacific railroad reported derailment of a nine-car train when a section of branch line in Sonoma county washed out. No one was injured. Another section of roadbed was undermined in Colusa county.

At Knights Landing, the Sacramento river surged to within three feet of flood stage, but began receding as the peak of the storm moved southward.

NEW STORM NEAR

Parometers indicated a new storm brewing over the ocean, although the weather bureau believed the worst of the present disturbance was over.

Traffic was tied up for two hours on the busy Bayshore highway south of San Francisco when an underpass was flooded. Water was a foot deep in stretches of the state highway between Williams and Willows in Sacramento Valley. A section near Winters was under three feet of water. Roadway near Marysville and Chico was flooded.

HEAVY SNOWS

Thirty inches of snow piled up at Truckee near the summit of the Sierras as snowblows battled to keep the road open. Airplane schedules over the mountains were cancelled.

A near-cloudburst turned several Fresno streets into running streams while hail battered blooms in valley orchards.

As the storm moved southward, Santa Ana, in Orange county, gasped under a cloudburst that poured down 1.33 inches of rain in an hour and tied up downtown traffic. Water backing up from choked street drains made a river of the floor of a block-long market, pouring in one door and out the other.

British Plane Crashes

THE WRECK of one of four British seaplanes en route from London to Singapore, that crashed on a hillside near Messina, Sicily. Among the nine killed were Flying Officer Forbes and Lieutenant Beatty reported engaged to the Misses Jean and Elizabeth Dubois, who later stepped from a plane over England and fell to death.

Pickets Active In Strike

PICKETS DEPLOYING in front of a San Francisco dyeing and cleaning plant found trouble in the persons of a few husky policemen. Several hundred workers went out on strike in an effort to stop price cutting.

Johnson Jubilant Over Reaction to His Radio Talk

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 7—UP—General Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, told the Rhode Island Bar Association tonight that there has been a favorable reaction to that part of his Monday night speech in which he attacked the Rev. Charles Coughlin, radio priest.

In a question period after he had addressed the 500 Rhode Island barristers on legal aspects of the NRA, Johnson adhered almost 100 percent to his plans not to renew his controversy with Father Coughlin and Senator Long.

But when one of the lawyers put to him the ingenious question: "General Johnson, has the clergy any right to discuss social problems?" he laughed and replied:

"I very reluctantly referred to Father Coughlin in my speech the other night but judging from the letters and telegrams I have received, apparently there has been a favorable reaction."

FLEEING WOMAN TRACED TO RENO BY AUTHORITIES

directly to Attorney Wight's office, and before she left the engagement had been made for a conference yesterday morning.

It was Wednesday evening between 10 and 11 o'clock that Mrs. McCord emerged from the grand jury room, where she spent only a few minutes and declined to be catechized, by asserting her constitutional right to refuse to respond to question that might incriminate her.

That brief ordeal over, Mrs. McCord, patently agitated, left the building. Waiting witnesses viewed her with pity as they noted her air of dejection. Friends had intimated to her earlier in the day of the likelihood of an indictment being returned and it is presumed with this thought in mind she had determined to flee. They had asked her if she had given consideration to the necessity of being in a position to furnish bail, and she replied in the negative.

The theory was advanced yesterday when the hours rolled by and she did not put in an appearance that perhaps she was keeping under cover until she could contact friends and raise the $1,000 bail that the court had set as the price of her liberty, pending trial. However, it is apparent from the facts gathered by Sheriff Miller that she emerged from the grand jury room and went directly to the depot.

Mrs. McCord appeared before the grand jury only as a witness. The aid of the sheriff's office had not been invoked to keep her under surveillance so there was nothing to prevent her leaving either the city of Martinez or the State of California. Two hours later, after the indictments had been returned, she was in the category of a fugitive from justice.

Death Ends Nine Day Sleep Of Nurse

PASADENA, March 7—UP—Verna Hixon, yellow-haired nurse, who went to sleep beside a burning gas heater and never awakened, died tonight as quietly as she had lived for the past nine days.

Motionless on a bed for 216 hours save for a slight twitching of her eyelids at times, she lay under a coma which defied the efforts of science to arouse her.

She was completely free of the poison which had invaded her system, according to Dr. John F. Bretton, who had attended her. That had been burned out by a glandular extract which she administered, but the effects of the gas had caused her nerves slowly to die.

LAST RITES HELD FOR MRS. C. PAYNE

Funeral services were held yesterday for the late Mrs. Catherine Payne, pioneer resident of West Richmond, from Our Lady of Mercy church. Rev. A. A. Doyle officiated. The Ryan Funeral Home had charge of the services.

Pallbearers were Emil Esola, Raymond Campbell, Henry Bill, James McCann, James J. Gillick and J. J. Doyle.

Doctors Amazed At Weird Interior Of Southern Lad

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—UP—Doctors probed with increasing amazement tonight into the wierd interior of six-year-old Wallace Rossall, "upside down boy," who has one of the queerest assortments of internal fixtures on record.

Latest discoveries are:

Wallace's large intestine is fastened to his heart.

His digestion is not muscular, as in normal cases, but is accomplished by the action of his heart and expansion of his lung, which passages the intestinal tract.

This is made possible because his intestines are in his chest and his stomach is near his hip. He has no appendix, his heart is on the wrong side and apparently his diaphram never existed.

U. S. Is Building Its Navy To Full Treaty Strength

WASHINGTON, March 7.—UP—The United States rapidly is building its navy toward full treaty strength, with prospects that it will reach that position within four years, official figures disclosed today.

At the same time the army and air forces are being reinforced strongly.

Statistics showed 76 ships already under construction and plans drafted to lay down 24 more war craft within the next year.

This information came as plans were announced in Great Britain for sharp increases in military and naval expenditures.

President Roosevelt asked concerning reports that Great Britain was building an air fleet to meet construction in this country, said he had not heard of the matter. He said he would like to check up on just what the reported announcement said.

HIGHWAY FATALITY

VALLEJO, March 7.—UP—John C. Watson, 75, of Napa Junction, was killed tonight while crossing the highway. He ran into the side of a car driven by Lieutenant Thomas Flynn of the U. S. Navy.

working near a small bonfire, stripped to waist.

Lamson, apologizing for his appearance, said he would go to the front door of the house and let her with the prospective tenant, Mrs. Place said.

WORE BLOODY SHIRT

A moment later he came to the entrance. Blood stained a shirt he had donned and was splattered over face and hands, Mrs. Place said. A moment before she testified, she heard a strange, hysterical call from the house.

"My God, my wife has been murdered!" Lamson cried as he came to the door, Mrs. Place said. He was white-faced and greatly agitated, she declared.

Mrs. Raas' testimony differed slightly from that of Mrs. Place. Lamson cried, "my wife has been killed," according to Mrs. Raas.

Legislature Introduces Another New Tax Program

SACRAMENTO, March 7—UP—Opposition to Governor Frank F. Merriam's tax program moved forward tonight with formulation of a new financial plan under sponsorship of a Democratic-Progressive bloc.

Based in part on the original Democratic program, the newest of the many tax proposals included a reduction of the proposed State income tax to yield approximately $50,000, instead of double that amount as had been suggested at one time.

NEW PROGRAM

While Assemblyman William Mosley Jones, Los Angeles, Democratic minority leader, claimed the new program and the assured votes of 30 Assemblyman and three Senators, observers predicted further changes would be made in an attempt to corral a majority vote, particularly in the lower House.

In addition to the income tax, ranging from 1 to 15 per cent, the bloc proposed the following other sources of income:

INCREASE RUM TAX

State-owned liquor stores instead of increased liquor taxes, $20,000,000; a severance tax on the privilege of exploiting natural resources, $35,000,000; tripling the present rate of bank and corporation taxes, $33,000,000; doubling inheritance taxes, $19,000,000; sales tax, but exempting foodstuffs, $60,000,000, or $21,500,000 less than current collections.

Support of this program was sought on the ground it ignored such features of the Merriam program as sales tax increases, consumers' taxes and so-called nuisance taxes on amusements and tobacco.

RAISE MONEY

It was claimed by the sponsors that the new program would raise, along with certain existing State levies, a total of $241,500,000, an adequate amount to meet general fund needs of the State for the coming biennium.

The behind-the-scene movements for sufficient power to carry a tax program through the Legislature represented virtually the only action at the capitol. On the surface all was quiet, with both Houses going through brief, perfunctory sessions to take care of routine matters.

The assembly remained in session long enough to refuse immediate consideration of a resolution, asked by Governor Merriam, memorializing Congress to include fundamental principles of the Townsend plan.

Father Tells Of Love Affair Of Murdered Coed

OAKLAND, March 7—UP—A father's version of the tragic love affair that led 24-year-old Walter Norris, San Jose State College senior, to kill Jean Marie Stahle, 17, his Mills College sweetheart, and then to commit suicide was told a coroner's jury here today.

"I told my daughter I didn't approve of the match," Roland Stahle said. "She agreed and was attempting to keep Walter from becoming serious."

Norris killed the girl and then himself when he feared he was to lose her. Both victims were buried today.

Bat Wing Parachute

NOT CONTENT with ordinary parachute jumping, Clem Sohn has devised this bat-wing garment strapped to his arms and legs. At Daytona Beach, Fla., he stepped from a plane at 12,000 feet, glided part of the way down on his cloth wings and released the 'chute at 6,000 feet, for a happy landing.

Rather prodigal, as it were. Elaborating on this alleged big-heartedness, one of his allegations is that he was given the munificent sum of $5 a month for the common necessities of life, and the allowance did not permit the purchase of patios de fol gras or porterhouse cuts of steaks. Incorporated also in his bill of woes was that his wife could find no good in him, or if she could she failed to mention it and was very voluble and pointed in her remarks about his shortcomings—in other words she is accused of indulging in that age-old wife pastime of nagging. He further avers that in labor and material he expended the sum of $2,000 in painting one of the community property houses so as to make it attractive and livable, for all of which he did not receive even thanks. That's his story and he will stick to it, even unto the witness stand.

In the meantime, like all women, the defendant is bound to have her say, and in this instance she says aplenty in the answer and cross - complaint through which she will make her entrance into the legal battle.

Admitting that she has $7,000 on deposit with the American Trust Company in San Francisco she evinces no desire or intention to halve it with her spouse, as he demands, but on the contrary asserts that the sum is her separate propety and not the result of commingling community with separate funds.

As to the allegation of parsimoniousness lodged against her, she comes back with the snappy rejoinder "that since the day of their marriage up to the present time that the plaintiff has not given the defendant any sum or sums of money in excess of $200—and in no larger denominations than $5 and $10, which would be an average of $12 per year or thereabouts."

Admission is made that there is community property, Lot 3 and 4, Block 173 Map of Wall's Addition to the City of Richmond, with a 4-room house thereon, which with the furniture therein is valued at approximately $1,200. Denial is made that property on Tenth between Barrett and Roosevelt is community, but was purchased with her own funds. Instead of improving the property as alleged by the plaintiff the defendant alleges to the contrary that he occupied it for more than five years and paid no rent.

To substantiate her charges of mental cruelty the defendant set forth a long list of grievances, chief among which are the following:

"Plaintiff has told the defendant to "go to Hell", "to get the Hell out", and has been cross and irritable, unkind and inconsiderate.

"That on four different occasions he harrassed and found fault, nagged the defendant, without cause or provocation and has forced her to flee from the house in her night clothes, causing her to seek refuge with the neighbors.

"That the plaintiff would sit in front of the cook stove and interfere with the cooking and keep the defendant and cross-complainant from doing her household duties.

"That when the defendant is sick the plaintiff refuses to wait upon her or to give her any attention or assistance in giving her medicine or provide food for her.

"That at one time the plaintiff had the locks on the house changed without the knowledge of the defendant so that she could not get in, but finally said, "as long as you have a friend with you I will let you in this time.

"That the plaintiff takes great delight in doing everything that he can do to harass, belittle and make fun of the defendant and refuses to take her to places of amusement with him and endeavors to keep her isolated and tells neighbors and friends that she is crazy."

Attorney Will H. Robenson represents the plaintiff and Attorney Tsar N. Calfee the defendant and cross-complainant.

DECLARE DIVIDEND

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7—UP—The Board of Directors of the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $3.25 a share, payable April 1 to stockholders of record as of March 25.

JOSEPH PERASSO, local service station operator, filed his petition as a candidate for city councilman yesterday.

REBELS WIN BATTLE IN BIG REVOLT

to have inflicted heavy damage.

The rebels, in addition to controlling Crete, also seized the Islands of Samos, Chios and Mitylene.

Foreign protection at Piraeus included the British warship, Royal Sovereign, and two French cruisers and a destroyer.

PROTEST FILED

GENEVA, March 7—UP—The ferment of warlike preparations in the Balkans, intensified by the fever of Greek revolution, reached a climax today in a protest to the League of Nations by Bulgaria against the militaristic operations of Turkey.

Bulgaria informed the league that since the conclusion of the Balkan understanding, the Turkish government has undertaken a complete reorganization of its military forces to the danger of surrounding states.

TROOPS ARE SENT

The Bulgarian government particularly resented the reinforcement of Turkish forces in Eastern Thrace, and declared:

"Previously, this province, bordering on Bulgaria, had only one division of infantry stationed at Tchorlou, and one division of cavalry at Lozengrade, to which was joined a division of infantry stationed in Constantinople."

REBELS ARE SHELLED

ATHENS, March 7—UP—Three government destroyers poured a hail of shells upon the roofs of Canea, Crete, today, in a bombardment of the Venizelist headquarters sheltering the chiefs of the Greek revolution.

Effect of the bombardment was not reported, but it appeared that the rebels had no answer to the attack from the air, and that considerable of damage was done by the Loyalist air fleet.

BATTLES REPORTED

The tide of battle between the revolutionaries and the government fluctuated between rebel defeats in Macedonia and rebel successes in the Aegean Islands, where the enemies of the present Athens government were reported in control of Samos and Chios.

Encouraging the Loyalists, the government announced that government airplanes, flying low over the town of Serral, in Macedonia, had worked havoc and that the populace of many rebel centers had become hostile to the rebels.

REBELS SURRENDER

It was announced officially that a group of 300 rebels had surrendered to the Bulgarian frontier force at various border points.

General Camenos, leader of the Macedonian rebel troops, however, insisted that the morale of the rebels was encouraging, and that his troops were withstanding the pounding of the Loyalist soldiers excellently. He broadcast an exultant message to the world.
